HOW IT WORKS:

Growth factors are natural substances that help promote normal, healthy development of various types of tissues and cells in the body, and they also help accelerate wound healing. They are known to help increase T cells, balance blood sugar levels and increase muscle growth and fat burning, as well as boost stamina and strength.

Immunoglobulins are needed to support various immune responses, and they have an essential role because they help form antibodies. These specialized bioactive molecules are found in the circulatory and lymphatic systems, where they stand ready to defend against incoming bacteria, viruses or other pathogens.
